

The Little Red Dog Story

This is Radar, The Little Red Dog. Radar came to us from the Denver Dumb Friends League after being returned twice for biting. He was on the "three strikes and you're out" plan and I think he knew it. When we had our visit with him and Klondike (our other dog), we were warned that he didn't like other dogs or men. Well, he and Klondike acted like they had known each other all their lives and he has to sit in his "daddy's" lap daily.

We knew from the beginning that he was going to be a "special needs pet" but we didn't know how special. He is terrified of storms and big sticks and has severe Colitis. Since Colitis is aggravated by stress, we have to be rather careful with him. When we leave town we have always had someone come and watch "the boys".

My husband and I recently retired from "corporate America" and decided to do what we love. And that is how the Little Red Dog Pet Services LLC began.

We now live in the small mountain town of Front Royal, VA, 60 miles from Washington DC. I graduated from Animal Behavior College in 2004 and I'm now a certified dog trainer. My business offers pet sitting and dog training.

This is Klondike, our other pampered pooch. He is the one that minds and isn't afraid of anything. He is also from Dumb Friends.
